The Chris Craft Commander Club is celebrating its 19th anniversary July 27-29 at the Mentor Lagoons Marina and Yacht Club and Lawnfield Inn and Suites,.

The event's focus will center around the popular Chris Craft Commander line of pleasure craft, according to a news release.

Chief Commander Lee Dahlen, will conduct a free technical seminar at the Marina and Yacht Club on July 27 from 10 a.m. to noon, covering engines, electrical components, testing, as well as "war stories" from the past years of Commander life, the release stated.

Members and the owners of other vintage Chris Craft models, including the Roamer and Constellation lines, as well as non-Chris Craft boats, are welcome to attend.

In 1964, Chris Craft Corp. unveiled its first entry into the fiberglass cruiser market at the New York Boat Show, and other models followed. These boats are still plentiful today, and much sought after for their fine workmanship, seaworthiness and accommodations, the release stated.
